HAMLIN, JONES COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1937

NUMBER 3

Another Gap Closed In Highways Out Of Hamlin

This week the gates were opened for traffic on Highway No. 4, north from the end of Hamlin's Central Avenue paving to the north side of Jones County, where the Fisher Co. gap of hard surface begins. This means that from the Gulf of Mexico, to the Stonewall County line north of Hamlin there is no use in any motorist getting his wheels wet or muddy.

From Hamlin to Aspermont there is yet some unfinished paving, but nearly all of the road is practically all-weather.

Ted Smith, a Stonewall county fellow, a handsome young man, too, is the contractor and from the way the north end of Central Avenue rides as a new road, he must know his "Road". This end of the road was bottomed by a thick layer of caliche, as a WPA project and since then it has settled and the finishing contract called for a two-coat asphalt with a topping of fine gravel. It looks good, however we folks about these diggings would have liked at least a three-coat covering before the gravel.

Central Avenue, Hamlin, is now one of the most attractive main streets in any little city this size in the entire South. That is we think so since we have seen but a few "one-main-avenue" towns. This completion of the road through town to the north, is a thing the citizens along the Central Avenue have longed for since the business section was paved. And by-the-way, did you know that Hamlin was one of the first towns under 2,000 population that paved their main business section. Don't get it that Hamlin has just 2,000 people NOW but somewhere a little less than double that number.

Paving helps, and there is a lot more around Hamlin that should be paved . . . towards Rotan—towards Sweetwater anyway.

Rev. W. H. Hanks, pastor of the Methodist Church is away this week attending the Northern Texas Methodist conference in Childress. His church will be the assembly place for a joint Thanksgiving service this Sunday night.

Mrs. L. P. Cozzens returned to her home in Abilene, Wednesday after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Harrison Hooper and her husband.

BUSINESS HOUSES WILL BE CLOSED

Thursday, November 25, is Thanksgiving Day and as is the custom in Hamlin, all or most every business house will be closed for the day, except for emergencies. And speaking of "emergencies" when a custom prevails each and every house should observe it. Sometimes observation has been that some seem to look for "emergencies" and chisel in on their neighbor. This should never be.

BOX SUPPER

Tuesday evening, November 23, a box supper, sponsored by the Lions Club in connection with the P. T. A. will be given at the Elementary Grade School. Every one invited to come.

T. E. L. CLASS IN MEETING

The T. E. L. Sunday School Class met in the basement of the First Baptist Church, Friday, Nov. 5, with Mmes. Z. T. Wilson, D. A. Brown, Pat Allen as hostesses.

Mrs. Brown, president of the class was in charge of a short business session. At this time plans were made and discussed for the work of the class during this month. At the conclusion of the business hour, several games, directed by Mrs. Steele were enjoyed.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses to members of the class and our associate members, Mrs. V. W. Day and Mrs. Shelburn.

Bob Barrow and Q. Martin are "deering" down in the Davis Mountains. They left Sunday and should get back about Friday.

Mrs. H. E. Walling of El Campo, Texas is visiting her father, F. C. Taylor. She will remain till after Christmas.

JOINT THANKSGIVING SERVICE SUNDAY

As was announced last week, Hamlin churches are to join in a community Thanksgiving service at the Methodist church this Sunday night.

Sunday night "meeting going" is not what it was in the good old days, from some cause, but this Sunday night the roll of the community in and about Hamlin should be called and everyone able to go and answer present should do so. Not that thankful hearts can not be as thankful at home or some place else than the Church—not that all who attend will be thankful but really the joint church service should have the presence of all who are really thankful.

It was a grand idea of the old colonists, in the struggle days to reach the end of the harvest and stop to offer thanks to the Giver of the Harvest.

It is unquestioned that our community—our county—state and nation has much to be grateful for—not that everything attempted was a success, but that we are harvesting more than any country in the world.

Sunday night Rev. Rutherford of the Nazarene church will deliver the main address, with pastors of the other churches assisting in the program.

The 1937 Thanksgiving spirit will be manifest on every hand through the next few days . . . and with it the usual hunting and killing . . . driving and killing let us all be careful as well as thankful.

JUNIORS GIVE CLASS PROGRAM

On Wednesday, November 17, the Junior Class of Hamlin High School presented an assembly program in the High School Auditorium.

Rosemary Carlton and Effie Lois McCoy, accompanied by Maxine Brundage, sang "Was It Rain," and "Harbor Lights."

The second part of the program was a one act royalty play, "The Toy Heart," by Polly Mac Manus. It was the story of a clash of wills as a girl from the East met a girl from the West. The members of the cast were: Floy Hudson, as Cho Cho San, a Chinese dancer of the Blue Dragon Theatre; Clara Louise Shelburne as Loo Moy, her maid; Mildred Barrow as Katherine, a role of Ann, her close friend. The Junior Class wishes to thank Effie, Lois and Maxine, of the Sophomore class, for their part on the program. Also the Juniors, thank the Home Economics Department for stage properties and Juanita Harbert and Bryant-Link Co., for costumes.

WINTRY BLASTS END THE SUMMER

Evidently the "frost cricket" knew his weather, for he hit again this year.

Along from the 10th to the 15th of September the shrill chirp of what we call the frost cricket was heard in his plaintive cry. That meant that winter frost was only 60 days away and true enough.

This past Wednesday morning old Jack Frost held the country in his grip. This was the final chapter of tender plant growth for 1937. Then this Thursday developed into a real winter day, dark and gloomy with a biting wind from the northeast.

Old coats and "longies" felt good to the older men, and a glowing fire completed his comfort.

This coming of frost is about the average for this section. November 14 is the pivot of his coming, so the cricket must have known that too.

We are now ready for the spare ribs and frog-eye gravy. That is after turkey day is passed.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Morse and daughter, Miss Reba, of Arburn, California were here last week to visit their Brother Townley Morse and family.

TEETHITIS—

It seems that teething is afflicting Washington City . . . our government is losing its teeth . . . Tuesday Mr. Roosevelt lost one . . . and not to be out done Vice President Garner went him one better and gave up two—just a government becoming toothless.

MOVING CAPITAL CITY—

We note that the Chinese are to move their capital city about 300 miles back. It will be remembered that once upon a time Washington ceased to be the capital and the White House was burned. Think of the U. S. Capitol being moved from an enemy in 1937? What would take place before such a step?

FROST IS ON—

If the frost did not land on the pumpkin this week it was because there were no pumpkins. The corn was in the shock and the gobbler has started his last trot . . . its winter again and Thanksgiving Day is just over the hill . . . and before you can say "Jack Frost" Old Santa will be peeping down the chimney . . . roll along old time roll on.

A LITTLE AD—

Any store will be elevated in its standing in a community by a little ad. A little ad often does the trick. Don't blame the community for slow trade . . . most generally it is the slow waiting storeman and not his customer. Why stock some perfectly good stuff and wait for a customer . . . tell 'em what you got, what it cost and a little ad will do the trick . . . some storemen never realize what a little ad will do 'till it is too late . . . one pill seldom brings results, but one ad followed by another and another will change a sluggish, stagnant stock of goods into an active living enterprise. Don't be surprised to find the other merchant in the other town doing plenty of business on "just a Dollar Day". A live merchant makes a live town.—Clams don't build.

Comptroller Has Enormous Task

Each week an average of over $3,000,000 is collected by the State Comptroller's Department of Texas. This year $158,000,000 was collected and $148,000,000 of spending was recorded by this department. George H. Sheppard, state comptroller has the biggest job in Texas as he is responsible through his department for getting all money collected placed in the right fund in his books, and depositing it into the treasury as well as receiving and issuing warrants for spending.

The comptroller has not come in as an officer in recent years with the rapid creation of new offices and boards, but he is a constitutional officer. His job was created when the constitution was. He is chosen by the voters every two years to serve as bookkeeper for the state and issue warrants upon the treasury for state payments.

This is not as simple as it seems as there are a million and one duties attached to this office. Such differences exist in the work that it is divided into several divisions, all highly specialized.

Creating of new governmental branches and increased revenue has caused the state comptroller's job to become larger and larger.

Tax collecting is supervised by Comptroller Sheppard and Chief Clerk Pat Dooley. They are in constant contact with all the county tax collectors and other state tax collecting officers.

It is the duty of this department to handle gasoline tax collections. This year 46 million dollars was collected and about six million had to be refunded for tax exemptions on agricultural claims. All of this has to be done through the Comptroller's Department. Another great source of income is the oil production tax. In one month there are 3,500 oil production reports, 600 oil purchaser reports, 1,100 gas production reports 750 oil leases and 6,000 gas leases reported both by purchaser and producer all for the comptroller to check and be sure everything is according to law and measure.

Now the department does not only have to receive these collections and reports but they have inspectors out checking up on payments due the state.

Because of the numerous and varying duties of the comptroller's department there are many divisions.

Robert S. Calvert is financial statistician of the department. He makes complete records and reports of state collections and disbursements. He furnishes all departments of the state government with statements on Gasoline distributors are paid one per cent for collecting the state gasoline tax.

Another division that brings in huge sums of money to the state a year is that that attends to the collecting of cigarette taxes. Gus Farrar acts as attorney for this department in collecting delinquent taxes, along with the Attorney General's Department.

There are other branches and divisions of this great department. The redemption division, branch offices stationed in 10 major points in Texas, the cashier's division, and the delinquent taxes division.

All of these divisions and transactions the comptroller has to stand responsible for.—Austin Times.

GRASS AND FINANCE

"Stay off the grass" would be a hard rule for Texans to follow consistently, since the state is literally over-run with it. Half as many species are to be found here as can be discovered all over the United States. Thirteen of the fourteen great American grass tribes have representatives on Texas land.

TRAILERS MARCH ON

Trailers away! Modern prairie schooners are making great headway in Texas, judging from the increased number owned during the past ten years. There are now 45,000 which is an increase of more than 500 per cent over those owned in 1926. Since automobiles have only increased 25 per cent, the size of this figure can be appreciated in comparison.

LIGHTED UP

A very shocking place is Texas, considering the amount of electric power harnessed and functioning today. With about 250 electrical generating stations operated by around fifteen major companies, the total investment is more than $300,000,000. Contribution of 1936 is the development of rural electrification, which is spreading through all parts of the state.

THE REST OF THE RECORD

BY JAMES V. ALLRED
Governor of Texas

AUSTIN.—Louisiana and Texas joined hands last week to make history when the Sabine River at Pendleton, spanned by a bridge for the first time, was dedicated. For over two hundred years men have either ferried or forded the stream: Sam Houston and his soldiers, homesteaders and traders, the French explorer St. Denis and many other picturesque figures have formed the colorful procession of those who gave so interesting history to that section of Texas.

Governor Leche and other dignitaries of Louisiana participated with members of the State Highway Commission and myself in dedicating the new structure. It was not hard to visualize the ceremonies as a prelude to the steady stream of traffic which some day will travel over the magnificent steel structure down Highway 21 whose route cities and towns will attempt to popularize as the best link between Mexico City and Washington, D. C. With that traffic will continue the present day toll of human lives and property damage unless our program of traffic safety can check the needless slaughter.

Traffic experts of the nation agree that there is no magic solution to America's No. One Problem. It is agreed—and proved in 13 states—that by militantly and intelligently carrying out the three "E's" of traffic safety—engineering, education, and enforcement—that a reduction in traffic accidents can be accomplished.

Last Spring in an effort to mobilize the forces that might best put into action the safety "E" of education, I appointed the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee composed of outstanding safety laymen and officials over the state. Under the chairmanship of C. J. Rutland, the committee has carried on a splendid work despite the obvious handicap—often fatal to an educational campaign—of a lack of funds. More than 75 towns have organized local traffic safety councils that are functioning actively in their fight to lessen the toll of traffic accidents in their communities.

Under the leadership of Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Tech and member of the statewide committee, a six weeks course was given on traffic safety to teachers attending last summer session. A similar course was given at A. & M. College where it was pronounced a marked success. Doubtless next summer there will be many other colleges adding traffic safety to their curriculum, as will more grammar and high schools. The results of this educational work will be seen in the years to come as this school generation becomes drivers.

The Governor's Traffic Safety Committee recently published a traffic manual, "Creating Safer Communities," designed to aid cities and towns in their efforts to combat traffic accidents. Many civic clubs and councils have requested copies which have been supplied them free. The splendid cooperation of the newspapers and radio stations have greatly aided the educational program.

The "E" of enforcement in the state program is carried out by the Public Safety Department whose highway patrol correlates its duties with local agencies charged with the enforcement of the law. This intelligent body of patrolmen has been increased by an additional force of 138 men who have just completed an intensive two months training school in preparation for their duties. With the help of the amended drivers license law passed at the regular session and this increased patrol force, the citizens of this state will be better protected than ever before in the past from the careless, dangerous driver.

The highway department has charge of the engineering phase of traffic safety and under the capable direction of its new highway engineer Julian Montgomery, there will be no effort spared to insure safety on the highways of Texas.

In the final analysis, of course, the whole problem of traffic safety rests upon the driver. If he obeys the sane, sensible laws of the road and street, Texas will not repeat the toll of 2,000 lives sacrificed to the automobile last year.

State Health Officer Against Scarlet Fever

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 18.—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, has just issued a warning in regard to scarlet fever, as the number of cases reported in Texas are increasing rapidly. Last year nearly three thousand cases were reported—the majority occurring from November through February.

Scarlet fever is a very contagious and serious disease. Grown people may catch scarlet fever, but children under 15 years are most likely to have it, if exposed it is especially dangerous for children under five years, and for babies. Do not let your children take any chances with scarlet fever. Call the doctor as soon as the symptoms appear.

If your child is going to have scarlet fever, the first signs you may notice are that he seems tired, restless and out of sorts. Usually there is a sore throat, chill, vomiting, or convulsion. The child has fever. His skin is dry and hot. His tongue is furred, and under this white covering it is red and swollen. In ordinary cases, these early signs are followed in a day or two by a rash. Little flat red points, close together, appear first on the neck and chest. Soon the rash is over most of the body and brilliant in color.

The doctor is required by law to report the case to the local health officer. Do your part by following carefully the quarantine instructions which the health officer will give you. Children who have had scarlet fever or who have been exposed must not return to school until permission is given by the health officer and physician. A severe or fatal case of scarlet fever may develop from contact with some one who has only a "light" attack.

SAFETY EDUCATION

JOB NO. 1

The role of education in the efforts toward solution of the traffic accident problem, is ably discussed by Albert W. Whitney, consulting director of the National Conservation Bureau.

Mr. Whitney goes back to the early days of the industrial safety movement for an analogy which is vital to his discussion. He recalls that on the one hand there were those who believed that the only way to make industry was through so-called engineering revision, and on the other those who insisted that the key to the problem was to be found in the education of workers themselves. Today, both ways of attacking the problem are recognized as essential.

We now have a similar situation in the traffic field, Mr. Whitney says. "The state is in the same position as the employer, for the state cannot consistently insist on good driving and good pedestrianism unless it is also doing its part in making the physical and mechanical conditions right." He emphasized that we must not lose time in carrying forward the necessarily long-term engineering projects needed to achieve traffic control and safety. He refers particularly to the enormously expensive job of rebuilding our streets and highways. However, he points out we must meanwhile be carrying on the necessary work of preparing individuals, ordinary citizens and public servants alike, for proper adjustment to their motor age environment. That means education.

As he says, "The people of the United States must be educated to an understanding of the fact that the traffic accident problem can be solved. We have sufficient proof that solution is possible. If the man in the street can be educated to the belief that we do not have traffic accidents the back of the traffic accident problem will be broken. To do this is educational job number one."

Nation Honors Major Industry In Milk Week

(This is the ninth of a series of brief, authentic articles on livestock production and feeding, published as a service to farmers and stockmen.) National Milk Week, November 14-20th, honors one of the nation's greatest industries and man's important food.

The first nation-wide celebration of National Milk Week calls attention, also, to the increasing importance of the South in milk production, and to the potential growth of the dairy industry in cotton-producing states.

Fourteen major cotton-growing states, from California to the Carolinas, produced 20,452,000,000 lbs. of milk in 1935, according to the department of Agriculture. This total was approximately one-fifth of all milk produced in the United States.

AVERAGE LOW IN SOUTH

Average milk production in cotton growing states, however, is considerably below the United States average of 4,169 pounds per cow. For the fourteen cotton growing States the average was only about 3,100 pounds and the average, excluding the high-producing states of California and Arizona, was only about 2,870 pounds.

While the difference in predominant breeds, as well as in the quality of animals, accounts for a portion of this lower average in the South dairy authorities agree that better pastures and better rations would materially increase the average milk production in the South.

Better use of available Southern feeds, combined with improved pastures, undoubtedly would result in heavier and more profitable milk production from the average Southern cow.

Pasture is one of the best and cheapest sources of roughage for dairy cows. While on pasture, even the best pasture, cows in milk should have enough concentrate to produce a maximum flow of milk, in addition to maintaining the body condition of the cows. The amount of the concentrate mixture needed is determined by milk production and the condition of the individual cow, but a good practice is to allow 2 1-2 lbs. of the grain mixture per gallon of milk.

PROTEIN IMPORTANT

Because protein is of the greatest importance in milk production, the South is fortunate in having a convenient, economical source of protein in cottonseed meal. The proteins of cottonseed meal are used by the dairy cow in supplying the proteins of milk, the proteins needed to restore and build body tissues, to keep the vital organs functioning normally and to produce energy.

To mix with their concentrates in the dairy ration, many Southern farmers like to use cottonseed hulls, which are light and bulky and free from dirt or trash.

Southern farmers and dairymen can raise the average production of their cows, as well as increase their profits, by wider use of well-balanced rations. Suggestions for balanced rations containing cottonseed meal, the South's own protein, and cottonseed hulls, an economical roughage, can be obtained from County Agents, Vocational Teachers, Cow Testers, and from cotton oil mills. Oil mills have, for distribution to farmers without charge, literature, containing ration recommendations by College leaders and practical dairymen.

Points and Personalities

by Doris Pope

Do you know that 1937 is almost gone?—Just a few days left. Old man Winter has been asleep on the job, but Monday he came sweeping down from the North, bringing with him icy blasts, frost and freezing temperature. People went scurrying to dig red flannels and top coats out of moth balls; people hurried to drain cars and fill 'em with anti-freeze; some have already had the sad experience of "frozen pipes" and are busy trying to remedy their situation.

Yes, this is our "pre-Christmas spell," and it's just a warning that Thanksgiving and Christmas are just a step ahead—so get ready for the season.

Along the "Drag" we note that the business firms are ready for the cold weather and Christmas. Bryant-Link Co. features overcoats for the man this week, while the cosmetic department presents a complete line of Dorothy Perkins for Mr. Lady. Magee Beauty Shop presents attractive new coiffures for the holiday season. McMahon Jewelry Co. calls attention to jewelry, while the high light of their windows is the Reed and Barton Sterling Silver display with a hand crocheted dinner cloth as a back ground. Inzer Pharmacy is gorgeously decorated for Christmas; their window, in holiday motif of red and silver, spot lights the Lenthier and Yardly lines.

Two young bachelor girls who recently rented an apartment and started housekeeping have christened their domicile the "Queens' Palace." Confidentially, though, we believe a more fitting name is "Old Maids' Retreat."

If you've heard weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth, don't be alarmed because its only Kurt Schoeman and HIS toothache. He has "the worst toothache of anybody" and he wants "his mama so-o-bad." (Kurt and A. D. Ensey ought to organize the Club of Mutual Sympathizers.)

Have you seen the saleswoman who always "flops" on the counter, no matter what's happening? It has been suggested that she read the Philco radio ad—No stoop, no squat, no squint.

What young man, who is vitally interested in the educational system of our fair city, recently turned journalist?

We heard that a pretty, young matron was walking home after dark one evening this week and a married man tried to "pick her up." She was terribly disappointed when her husband failed to put up his fists and defend her womanly honor.

What bachelor girl spends hours and hours thinking of ways to attract the attention and to corner a certain young dry goods manager, who speaks with an accent?

Who is the gentleman who woos his fair lady, an attractive brunette beauty operator, with "birds" instead of flowers? Perhaps he misread the proverb—its the man's heart that is won through the stomach, and not the lady's.

Here and there: The piano teacher was seen escorted by a drug clerk who recently moved to our town. A well known dress shop owner gets "fresh" with strange men at the boarding house and then claims its a case of mistaken identity. Ask a certain charming matron who lives on Lake Drive where and how she got the beautiful ivy that is in her living room. Mr. and Mrs. Jiggs Gold are back in town looking very smug as if they had "put something over." Two School teachers were asked to appear before the Rotarians this week and tell them "how" to raise money. We haven't decided, yet, which way this crack is to be interpreted.

Don't forget the real, old fashioned box supper that the Lions are sponsoring Tuesday night at the Elementary school. Come and have a roaring good time!
